

Better Wound Care. Better Patient Outcomes.

More time for patients & reduced wait times.

There's never been a greater need for specialized wound care. With chronic disease rates on the rise, more and more patients are living with long-lasting or slow to heal wounds. Outside of hospitals and other traditional care environments, prevention methods, recurring infections and other complications can often fly under the radar.

As a nationally approved vendor of a leading home-health and community services provider, Aetonix's aTouchAway mobile communications platform is helping wound care nurses and enterostomal therapy (ET) specialists provide more efficient and effective care.

aTouchAway is a secure, PHIPA and HIPAA compliant communications solution purpose-built for busy home care providers. Device agnostic, caregivers using aTouchAway only need to download a convenient, easy-to-use app on a device of their choice – from mobile phones and tablets to desktop computers in your home or office.

Advantages of using aTouchAway include:

- Remote, secure video conferencing and 3-way video call capability
- Remote wound viewing with camera pivot and zoom
- Use video for remote verification of pathway selection(s), dressings and product selections
- Dashboard views to report key information on video call utilization
- "Just in time" remote mentoring / education / decision support with ETs helps develop your capacity and skill set

For wound care champions and ETs, being able to spend less time in the car let's you support more patients and make faster treatment decisions - getting your clients to healing faster.
